Caplin Platform

The Caplin Platform provides all the processing and distribution capabilities you're ever likely to need for online trading. It supports all client technologies and asset classes.

Built on Caplin Liberator, an ultra-high-performance financial internet hub, and Caplin Transformer, a real-time data transformation engine, the Caplin Platform already powers tens of thousands of users on many of the world's leading online trading systems and single-dealer platforms.

Caplin Trader

Caplin Trader enables you to create outstanding trading apps for both desktop and mobile use, based on future-proof HTML5 technology.

It includes the BladeRunner HTML5 development environment, a set of JavaScript trading libraries, and an ever-growing collection of reusable business modules and solutions ('blades' and 'motifs') that offer ready-made functionality across a range of asset classes and user segments.

See in Developers' site

BladeRunner

BladeRunner brings revolutionary productivity, quality and maintainability to enterprise-scale HTML5 development. Based on a simple but powerful set of programming conventions, it allows rapid development of reusable modules (blades) which can then be combined into sophisticated apps. BladeRunner provides powerful support for blade-based development, testing, integration and deployment.

BladeRunner is open, modular, and fully compatible with most leading third-party and open source HTML5 libraries and tools. It addresses three major areas where existing tooling is either lacking, fragmented or hard to integrate:

- Modular code structure, dependency management and class-loading
- Testing frameworks: Unit and Acceptance in the first release, Integration and Performance to follow.
- Client-side MVC and separation of concerns for building rich, interactive UIs.

Download the Why BladeRunner? white paper to find out more. BladeRunner is currently in beta.

Join Beta Program

See in Developers' site

Technical features

- A minimal set of conventions required for structured enterprise HTML5 applications
- Name-spaced re-usable blades that can be run stand-alone or integrated into an app
- Run-time or build-time class loading and bundling of code and resources
- Powerful 'workbenches' for developing and testing blades in isolation
- Support for multiple 'aspects' to present a set of blades in multiple ways (for different devices or user segments, for example)
- MVC (MVVM) library for building complex, stateful user interfaces
- Internationalisation of code, configuration and layout
- Unit testing and BDD based acceptance testing tools

The single dealer platform
you need. Fast.

CALL NOW!!!!!!!

Why are banks around the world launching single-dealer platforms?

Cost-effective

They are much more cost-effective and scalable than voice trading

Profitable

They are much more profitable than multi-dealer platforms or white-labeled offerings

Customer focused

They give banks autonomy and bring them closer to their customers

How can a single-dealer platform impact your organisation?

More clients

Attract and retain more clients by offering better value and better service.

find out how

Increased revenue

Grow revenue per client by offering the most compelling trading channel.

find out how

Better margins

Improve trading margins with per-user pricing, no brokerage fees, and more opportunities to internalise flow.

find out how

Focused service

Control costs and make your sales desk more productive by focussing voice trading on high-value clients.

find out how

Faster to market

Bring new products to market fast typically in weeks rather than months.

find out how

Immediate Results, Unlimited Scope

You need to create a single-dealer platform that's exactly right for your customers. Caplin makes it easy, with the world's only complete single-dealer platform solution.
